9:00 AM—10:00 AM Training for Employers

The Business Case for Hiring Workers with Disabilities (8:45 AM registration)

There are both civic and strong economic reasons to consider people with disabilities as employees. This breakfast session illustrates through multiple examples how a variety of companies benefitted from hiring and training a diverse mix of people who previously faced significant barriers to employment. The lesson learned is simple: Success results from matching an individual's skills and preferences to workplace environments where your new employee helps satisfy the unmet needs of the business, a specific department, or your customers.

12:00 PM—4:30 PM Training for Providers, Case Managers & Self-Advocates

Linking Discovery & Job Development: A Customized Approach (11:30 AM registration, working lunch)

This presentation uses numerous examples from urban, suburban and rural settings to illustrate how Discovering Personal Genius is used to develop solid vocational themes that drive targeted, individualized, and creative job development. This session includes discussion of business ownership as a viable option; the use of amalgamated funded sources; SSA Work Incentives; and team roles.
